be fun, but the Oklahoma State and Oklahoma rivalry feels like a heated war, in a "friggin' bowl" sort of way. The Big 12 South has three of the top four teams — the Sooners, Sooners and Texas Longhorns — as well as a fourth, Baylor, that is still waiting for its first meaningful victory. And after consecutive trips to the Big 12 championship game, it's not looking like OSU's dominance will change. But there is a sense that it's time to give the Sooners another shot. In order to discuss the issue, we decided to compare the Oklahoma State and Oklahoma programs using the same five metrics — returning production, recruiting rankings, matchups, coaching hires, and stadium environments — to see which team would have the best chance in the Big 12 championship game, and potentially, the title game. Years in the SEC: 6 (OSU) 5 has a slight edge in average conference success rate, nearly 10 percent. OSU leads the pack in overall talent. OSU is 28th in average games played per year, but 13th in Conference RPI. OSU

(7-5) OSU is No. 1 in the Big 12 and ranked No. 50 in the country in recruiting rankings. Overall, OSU has the biggest edge in the five categories. But can it play up to its end of the bargain?Q: How
